New Extension Agent Self Study Guide

Updated by Organizational Development, November 2008
The Texas A&M University System

Welcome to the Extension Family. You have joined a group of dedicated professionals who enjoy helping people through educational programs in the areas of agriculture and natural resources, family consumer sciences, 4-H and community resource and economic development. This self study guide is designed to help the county Extension agent as a newly employed faculty member of Texas AgriLife Extension Service. It is an organized plan of observation and participation under the guidance of District Extension Administrator, County Extension Director, Regional Program Director, Mentor and/or Co-worker.

You will be expected to complete this assignment within six months of the time you are employed. As you complete an activity, fill in the guide. It is not necessary for you to follow the guide according to page order.

Experience has proven the value of this training activity. Other agents will work with you concerning reference material as well as other assistance you may need as you complete this assignment. When you have completed this self study guide, please submit it to your District Extension Administrator/County Extension Director for review and evaluation. Best wishes to you as you complete this self study guide and begin your career as a county Extension agent.

Using Texas
AgriLife
Extension
Service
Program
Development
Process

This section deals with the program development process - the involvement of local citizens in planning, implementing and evaluating the Extension program. Texas AgriLife Extension Service program development model should be used by all agents in carrying out their job responsibilities.

You will be expected to observe and participate in certain program development activities. Following these experiences, you will write a brief report on what you observed and learned and what you think could be done to improve the program development process in your county.
